Now is the Time

The COVID-19 pandemic revealed the very real gaps and challenges in caring for people with life-limiting illnesses and the frail elderly. Supports for family caregivers and health care workers were stretched to the breaking point, impacting both their mental health and physical wellbeing. The pandemic also gave rise to new ideas and innovations in care and inspired new partnerships across care settings.

The need for widespread adoption of a palliative approach to care has been recognized and new legislation and regulations in Ontario require a palliative approach to care being adopted. Hospice palliative care providers have known and promoted this approach for years and now all in healthcare and government are listening and responding.

Now is the Time for Hospice Palliative Care

The 2023 Hospice Palliative Care Ontario Conference will take place from June 11 to 13 in Richmond Hill, Ontario. The April 2022 conference attracted over 650 delegates, putting the conference back on track to its pre-pandemic attendance record of 850 delegates.
